Harmony Baptist Church

Dear parents,

I, too, am a parent. Some days I wonder why God would trust me with them, but other days I am so proud of them. In the ups and downs, crashes and victories of parenting, I find that the one thing that remains constant is my love for my children. Even when I am angry, frustrated or confused, I still love them and want the best for them.

If you know what I mean, then you probably have wondered as I often do, "What can I do to prepare them for adulthood?" I know they'll get older. Even when I wish they would just stop growing so fast! But, I want them to be an adult, to be a good person with morals and values that I can be proud of. And, that they can be proud of! I want them to think of others and volunteer their time to help those less fortunate themselves. I want them to be happy.

In my mind, that's the bottom line for me as a parent, that's how I love my children. As a pastor at Harmony, I know that that's also an important role of our church. What many people value about church is that we can teach people good morals to live by and give them an opportunity to serve others who need help.

The Serve Now program does just that! That's why I am so excited about this program! It gives us as parents another tool to use to train our children in the things that are most important to us. Each week, Serve Now will provide age appropriate skills for your child to learn how to serve others, they will be taught from the Bible about being moral and having strong character and then they'll be given an opportunity to serve others with what they have learned that week.

If this program fits with what you desire for your children, then we invite you to join us!

Hope to see you soon!
Pastor Dave

Choose any 2 Skill Courses

Cooking

If your child loves to cook or want to learn how, the Cooking course will allow children to make 5 recipes, one each week of the course. While making these foods, children will also learn cooking related skills such as accurate measuring, spreading and sprinkling foods, and layering foods. Not only will children have the fun of cooking, but also of tasting what they've made and bringing home the recipe.

Card Making

If your child loves to be creative or wants to begin to learn how, the Card Making course will teach children how to make cards that can be given to others to encourage and brighten their day. Each week, children will make a different type of card and learn a different set of creative skills such as using stamps and ink, using spacers to create three-dimensional decorations, specific folding techniques, and making a card that becomes its own envelope.

Drama

If your child loves acting and wants to learn new ways to express themselves, the Drama course offers four lessons on the basics of drama. As the child actors practice they will enjoy active games and activities that reinforce each skill. Children will learn how to position themselves on stage, how to control voice volume, and how to use body language and facial expressions to communicate. The special treat for this course is on the fifth week when they will perform the skit for their parents and other children.
